The sixth man on the truck car, O. Ferguson, King Cadet, Kas., was seriously injured; three of the dead were identified as P. N. Fuel, Sedalia, Mo.; D. In the early morning darkness the freight train came up on the truck car on a curve at Arcadia and before either could be stopped they crashed head on. The bodies were terribly mangled.

HALF MILLION FOR WAR WORK

STATE CHAIRMAN REPORTS INCREASED INTEREST IN WAR WORKERS' CAMPAIGN.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14.—(Special)—Subscriptions to the United War Work campaign as received at state headquarters to 9 o'clock this morning total $518,500. Increased interest in the campaign is being shown on every hand, but state Chairman E. W. Marland issues a warning that Oklahoma is still far short of its quota. Having no drum, dollars for the fund were tossed in a hat in true Salvation Army style at the cattle auction held this week at Lookabab and Whistler in Blaine county. Women also passed around subscription blanks in each place. The hat collections amounted to $270 at Lookabab and $84 at Whistler. James A. Wilson, director of extension at Oklahoma A. and M. college, and C. W. Callahan, district agent of extension service, who started the dollar throwing in Blaine county, will do the same at other sales to be held over the state.

MOTHER, FIRST THOUGHT OF WOUNDED AMERICANS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, OCT. 15.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)
When an American soldier goes "over the top" or when he receives a bullet or shrapnel wound he thinks of his mother. The French Poilu thinks of his wife, and the British Tommy of his sweetheart.

This fact is borne out by the officers and doctors who have served in all three of the Allied armies. They declare that when the American soldier is wounded the first word on his lips in almost every case is "Mother." Even after he is removed to the hospital he calls constantly for his mother. His British cousin, however, seems chiefly absorbed in his sweetheart, and longs to see her "just once again," while his French compatriot thinks only of his "démme bien aimée."

The correspondent of The Associated Press at the American front asked a number of soldiers what thought was most on their minds when they first left their trenches to attack the Germans. In nine cases out of ten the answer was "Of home and mother."

There were a few, however, who said that as they entered the battle their minds were given over wholly to prayer, although they had never before been in the habit of praying. Some of them kept before them words of encouragement and counsel contained in letters from relatives.

One soldier on the morning of the attack received a letter from his mother quoting the Scriptural phrase "Trust in the Lord and no enemy shall prosper against thee." The soldier went through one of the bloodiest battles of the war that day and came out unscathed.

Quality in shoes never was so important as today. Clinging to our high standards of other years, we have insisted in the face of many handicaps to maintain quality, for we, as well as you, have realized that the best shoes are the cheapest in the end. WE MUST PREPARE.

The News called attention a few weeks ago to the necessity of Ada and Pontotoc county getting ready for peace. Hostilities have now ceased, and we should make every preparation possible for going forward in a commercial way. We must prepare to assist the boys as they come back from camp. For the present at least the men in Europe will probably stay there, but those in the camps will be returned to civil life in a few days, or weeks at the most. They must have jobs. Those who will go on the farms must have land to farm. The season is advancing. The time to make arrangements for a farm will soon have passed. This should be attended to.

The great industries which suddenly arose in the East to make munitions and guns will not be needed now. Some of them will be changed to manufacture things needed in a peaceful commercial life, but it is likely many of the workmen will not be needed. These men will gradually come back west. Ada and Pontotoc county should strive to get as many of them as possible.

We do not believe there will be a great surplus of labor. We should remember that before the war we received approximately one million immigrants into this country every year and found jobs for most of them. Immigration since 1914 has been a negligible quantity. The boys coming back from France will not come in any faster, probably, than did the immigrants years ago. As we are now experiencing a labor shortage, it is evident that we can use all the returning soldiers without disrupting industry.

Pontotoc county should endeavor to get as many new farmers with energy and knowledge as possible. We have the land, climate, water, everything for successful farming. We need more farmers, and every available acre tilled.

SOME PERTATERS.

Canaan was described by certain imaginative publicists attached to the army of the Israelites as "a land flowing with milk and honey." To their untutored tastes milk and honey seemed the sublimation of luxury, particularly at that time, after several years' experience with hickory nuts and huckleberries for dinner and dessert. As a matter of fact, Canaan was then and has been ever since a land of short pickings, sterile on the hillsides and stony in the bottoms. The cows were all scrub stock, and the milk they parted with always reluctantly, was so thin and emaciated it had to be greased before given to the baby. The honey also was inferior, being the handiwork, so to speak, of razorback bees, and so lacking on the saccharine element it tasted like tar sweetened out of a shingle. However, it is not the purpose of State Press to disparage Canaan. He is no hand to knock a country just because the people in it haven't enterprise enough to come to Texas. But Texas, nevertheless, affords ample ground for remarks that would be mistaken for flattery if applied elsewhere. A few days ago State Press felt called upon to read a lecture to some Detroit citizens for reporting a sweet potato weighing nine and a half pounds. It was not that S. P. wished to asperse their veracity, but rather to induce in them a spirit of moderation such as would cause citizens of other States not to discount the more vital facts of Texas. But the preacher did no good. A banking man at Longview, who goes by the name of Sparkman in Gregg County, writes in that the Detroit tubers were merely edible roots, whereas Longview produces regular potatoes—some of them weighing up to fifteen pounds each. To prove it, he sends along a few specimens, picked at random by a blind man in the dark of the moon. They might weigh anything, from fifteen pounds to half a ton. One of them, probably included by accident, is almost as big around as the bung hole in a U-boat. A dozen of the same size laid in a row would reach from Easy street to Shinbone alley. Of course, vegetables of that tonnage can not be concealed. State Press is compelled to admit their existence, even though folks of other States should feel humiliated over the comparative poverty of their soil. But why should nature, even gorgeous Texas nature, put so much energy into one potato? Any man who should respond to such a potato as a potato should be responded to—any man who show stow such a potato where potatoes are intended to be stowed—any man who should rise from the table with such a potato inside of him would look like his bosom might be knocked off with a board.—State Press Dallas News.

It's all right to tell of the greatness of Texas, State Press, we are proud of the fact that it is our native state, but when it comes to the real article in potatoes or anything else, you should pay a visit to Oklahoma. After that you will have something worth while to tell your readers. Texas does very well, of course, but after you have seen what Oklahoma can do you will have to enlarge your vocabulary especially in the line of adjectives of the superlative degree, to tell of what you saw.

PROBLEMS IN GERMANY.

Just how soon the American Expeditionary Forces will be returned from France and mustered out of service depends, to a great extent, upon the difficulty the Allies experience in bringing order out of chaos in Germany, Austria and Russia. It is assumed the Allies will not leave these nations torn by anarchy, for to do so is to see one of the aims we have been fighting for not realized. Germany, Russia and Austria must be saved from themselves.

We doubt if the conditions in Germany will be any better than those in Russia unless the Allies get in and keep down anarchy. We have heard it said that the German people are educated and have too much sense to murder as the Bolsheviks are murdering in the land of the once powerful czar, but indications point the other way. The German has been educated, but educated under a false psychology and false ideals. Now that this psychology and these ideals have been destroyed, what are the German people to do? Is it not natural that they are on a sea, without compass or skilled mariner? They must find a way out, and that way out may lead over the dead bodies of many of the leading men of the nation.

To change the entire form of government of a country in a few days is a wonderful undertaking. Thus far it has never been accomplished without bloodshed. France tried it and blood ran the gutters. England escaped a part of the bloodshed by making a little change now and another at another time. We thought Russia would escape the terrible ordeal, but it did not. Why should we assume Germans are more intelligent than other people? They have not demonstrated that they are.

In promising speedy aid to save the Germans from starvation, Wilson is obeying the scriptural injunction, but it is not difficult to guess what sort of an answer the Germans would have returned had the positions been reversed. They would have replied that the German people being the favored ones, destined to rule the world, it made little difference what went with the others. If they starved it was not Germany's look-out. However, civilized people do not enjoy seeing even an animal suffering, and Wilson is taking the humane view of the matter.

At this time of the year we always hear more or less complaint from subscribers about their paper arriving after dark. As a matter of fact the paper is printed at the same hour of the day the year around but when the days grow short it is impossible to get the paper to all subscribers while it is still light. It is impossible to go to press any earlier and give good news service. The carriers have been provided with whistles and instructed to make their coming known when it begins to grow dark.

Whenever a bully gets the worst of it he invariably reveals his true nature. The Kaiser is no exception to the rule. When he realized that all was lost he showed the broad stripe of yellow in his nature by fleeing from the country he had brought to ruin, leaving the people who had suffered untold privations in his cause to bear the burden and get out of it as best they might.

Strong endorsements of the United War Workers Campaign have been issued by the heads of most of the fraternal orders of Oklahoma. It is a work for humanity and one cannot say the American people are lacking in humane ideals.

Even though the American soldiers may not return home in any great numbers for some months to come, it is comforting to know that they will not have to spend this winter in muddy trenches.

WOMEN RAISED THIRD OF BOND QUOTA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14.—The women of Oklahoma raised approximately one-fifth of the state's $42,000,000 subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan, according to an announcement by Dr. Lelia Andrews, chairman of the women's state committee in charge of the loan drive.

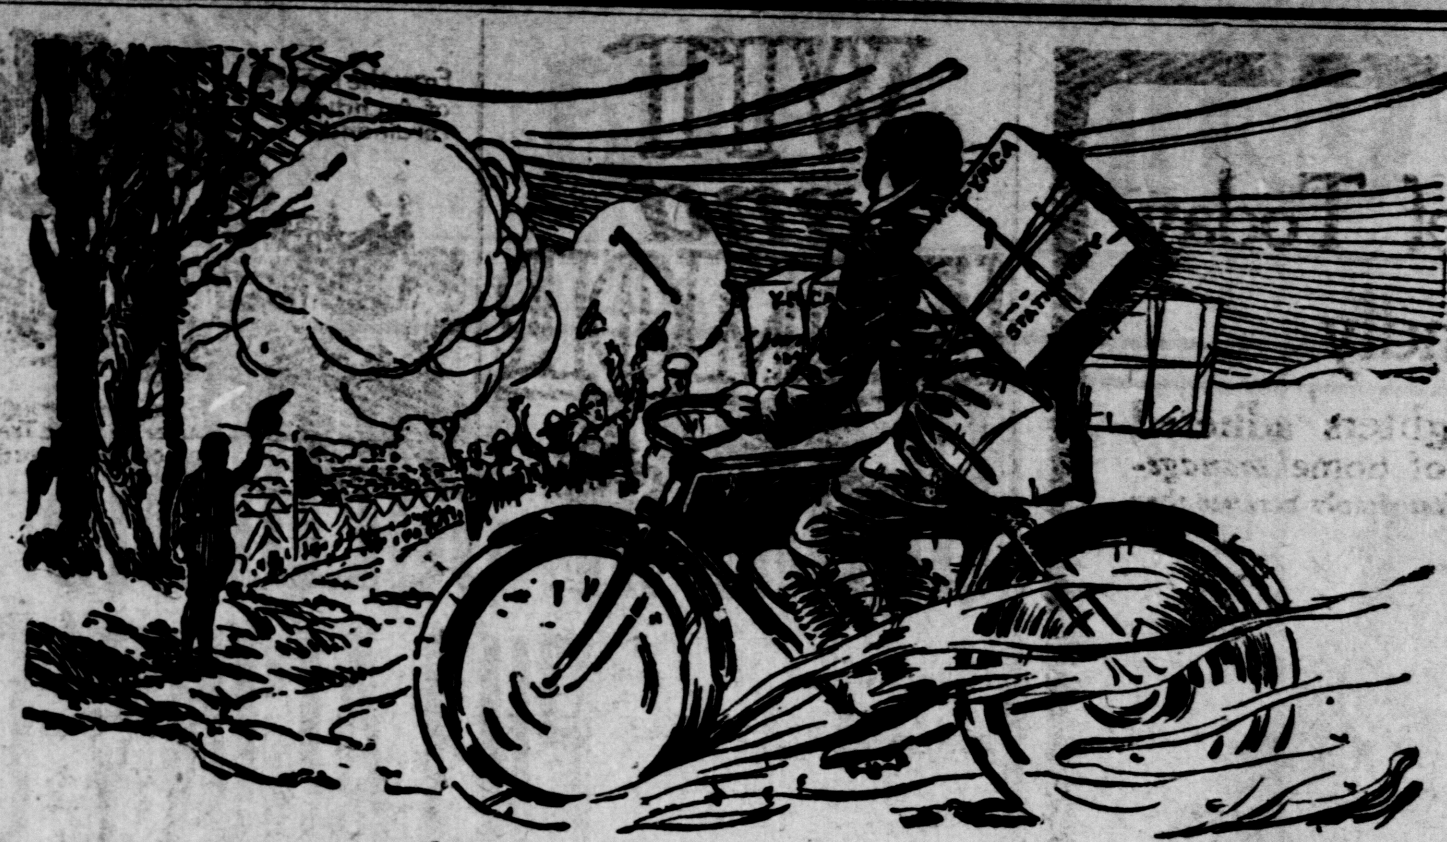

Dr. Andrews gave the total raised by Oklahoma women during the last drive as $8,225,875, representing 69 Oklahoma counties which are part of the Tenth Federal Reserve District. The remaining eight counties, in the southern part of the state, are attached to the Dallas district. The women workers in these eight counties, raised $161,400, bringing the total in all 77 counties to $8,414,275.

According to Dr. Andrews' announcement, over one-half of the amount raised by the women was pledged from the Tulsa district, Tulsa county subscribing $2,157,700 dollars through the women's committees.

When France Rebuilds.

"Have you Americans any conception of what the requirements of France will be, when the allies have won the war and our country begins its work of reconstruction?" This question was asked me a few days ago by a prominent business man of Paris, who, having been gassed, can no longer fight, and is visiting this country. From what he proceeded to relate it is evident that comparatively few on this side so realize what our export trade to France is destined to become.

"For many years," he said, "our people secured their machinery, printing presses, tools, electric machinery, and lighting fixtures, etc., all from Germany. This was because German prices were lower than other countries. But now! Germany could not name a price which would induce a Frenchman to buy of her, no matter what his need. England will be busy supplying her own wants and those of her export trade, hence we are looking to your country. Our textile mills, nearly all of which were in northeast France, have long since been destroyed and the machinery carried into Germany. Our textile manufacturers are already making a new start in southwest France; securing what little machinery they can. With the end of the war this industry will be one of the first to resume, and we shall require, of textile machinery alone, over 200,000,000 francs. I could go on down a list of a hundred articles, whose requirements, while not so great, will in the aggregate total a vast sum. Partly because our people regard the Americans so highly, and are full of admiration for the splendid things they are doing in our country, and partly that we may know and read your language, great numbers of our people are studying English, not only to be able to read it, but to speak it as well. We expect to offer such attractive opportunities, especially to constructing engineers and mechanics of all kinds, that thousands of your young men will remain in France, at least during the first two or three years of reconstruction."—H. H. Windsor, in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Did one of these 200 letters come to you?

A DUSTY courier slid off his motor-cycle at the big double hut in a French town and tramped up to the canteen.

"Got a note for the secretary from my commanding officer," he said. He handed a piece of paper across the counter to a smiling middle-aged man.

This is the note the Secretary read:

We landed here three days ago—miles from anywhere. Can you send us some supplies, especially writing paper? This is the first chance the boys have had to write home and we have no paper to give them.

The older man looked up and grinned.

"Got you away off in the woods, have they?"

"I'll say they have!"

"Can you carry anything?"

"All you'll give me!"

From the shelves the secretary took big packages of paper and envelopes.

"Too much?" He asked.

"It will be gone ten minutes after I get back!" said the boy.

"Tonight," the secretary went on, "I'll drive out a truck with more supplies and a man to stay with you. And tell the boys that if their letters are finished, I'll bring them back with me tonight, and get them into the mails."

An hour later that motor-cyclist whizzed into camp, loaded down with writing paper, and in ten minutes letters were being written to 200 American homes.

The United War Work organizations know what letters mean to American soldiers. They know that fighters want to get letters and want to write letters.

So in every hut and on every ship your boys find writing paper, envelopes, ink, pens and pencils, and tables where they can get off by themselves and tell the folks back home how things are going.

Millions of sheets are given away free every week to American boys overseas. That is why the letters you get from your boy are written on the stationery of one of these organizations. It is one of the plans to bridge the Atlantic. Help keep the letters coming! Your dollars will supply a whole Company for several days. Dig deep today; help to bind together France and here.

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before!

The need is for a sum of 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000. By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved.

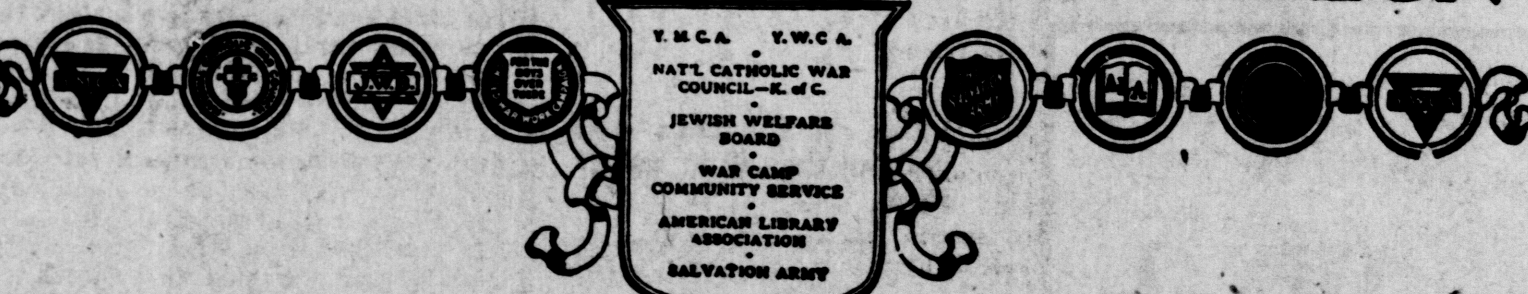

Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their:

- | | |
|----------------------------|-------------------------------------------|
| 3,600 Recreation Buildings | 2,500 Libraries supplying 5,000,000 books |
| 1,000 Miles of Movie Film | 85 Hostess Houses |
| 100 Leading Stage Stars | 15,000 Big-brother "secretaries" |
| 2,000 Athletic Directors | Millions of dollars of home comforts |

When you give double, you make sure that every fighter has the cheer and comforts of these seven organizations every step of the way from home to the front and back again. You provide him with a church, a theatre, a cheerful home, a store, a school, a club and an athletic field—and a knowledge that the folks back home are with him, heart and soul!

You have loaned your money to supply their physical needs. Now give to maintain the Morale that is winning the war!

WRITES OF FRANCE
With the Colors.
Mrs. Rosa Graham,
Stratford, Oklahoma.
Dear Little Wife:
Will drop you a few lines as I am thinking of you all the time. I am well, hope you the same. Dear, as I have just written you I will not write very much. Will tell you a few of the sights I have seen in France. It is a beautiful country and on account of the loss of men the women are compelled to do all the heavy work, such as tending and harvesting the crops and hauling the fuel and feed. They wear black, for every family is mourning the loss of one or more men. The improvements and developments are very unique. Oxen and wheelbarrows are the chief means of transportation. The trains are a joke. They remind me of a string of men pulling them in the pictures of an old story book. Each farmer has only a few acres of land. Fences are nearly all hedges or some kind of shrubbery, and the buildings are big rock buildings of from three to six rooms with the barn connected to the house.

When I came over here I was looking for a prairie country but I got fooled. There are lots of pines and cedars. All straight and pretty, but it's got nothing on the good old U. S. A. That's the place for me. I will close for this time, so bye-bye.
Your husband,
THAD. A. GRAHAM,

The New Engine

We have received our new Engine, ordered last January, and for several weeks will be tearing out the old and putting in the new. While doing this work we will have only one engine to depend on for service, so there will probably be some interruptions. We trust they will be few and of short duration and that our customers will bear with us patiently. For two or three Sundays, beginning with the 10th, the plant will be shut down from two to six hours while making changes in steam lines necessary to make connections for the new engine.

Few Women of Today Work Blindly

Used to be that daughters adhered strictly to mothers' methods of home management. They used certain baking recipes simply because they were favorites of former generations.

Times have changed radically. Colleges and clubs have been established for the express purpose of determining just which baking method and baking materials are best.

Many domestic scientists devote their lives to research and experimental work. They are constantly testing food products. They conduct exhaustive comparative tests. They accept and endorse only such methods and baking processes as have been found superior through scientific measurement of merit. These decisions are given wide publicity. The result is that the housewife of today produces more wholesome and perfect bakings at less cost than ever before.

I have conducted many experiments and have investigated experiments conducted by scores of other domestic scientists. My own work and the decisions handed down by other pure food specialists and domestic scientists—bring out the evidence that the overwhelming majority employ and advocate the use of one special brand of baking powder—which proves once more the old saying that "there is only one best."

I know that this baking powder has won its popularity among experts on merit alone. Because I know that they show no partiality. To obtain their approval a product must possess superiority. And that superiority must cover every phase of baking powder quality of material and action. It must be absolutely sure in results—never fail. It must be perfectly pure—leave no harmful residue in the foods. It must produce the best grade of bakings—cakes, biscuits, etc., that are light, tender and tasty. Finally—it must be a baking powder that is economical in both cost and use.

Calumet Baking Powder is the one baking powder that has won the verdict of superiority and the hearty endorsement of expert domestic scientists—who like myself have proved Calumet's superiority beyond dispute. This superiority "sanctioned" as it is by eminent domestic science authorities certainly clearly indicates that Calumet gives the housewife the greatest of Baking Powder value.

WIT and HUMOR

Means Nothing to Her. "There's a thing that's troubling me," remarked Mr. Gildwilt.

"Tell me your sorrows," said Mr. Gildwilt cheerily. "Why is it that when the average married woman starts out to teach her husband how to economize she begins by telling him to quit smoking?"

"That question is easy to answer. It's because the average married woman doesn't smoke."

Embarrassing Predicament. "Do you know of anything more tiresome than listening to some other fellow make love to a girl over the telephone?"

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Dubson. "Name it." "Being at the other end of the line and trying to look unconcerned while waiting for the girl to ring off and give you a few kind words."

An Off-Told Tale. "What's going on here?" "Some of Dubwilt's facetious friends are holding a little celebration. "A birthday party?" "In a way. They are commemorating the anniversary of Dubwilt's favorite anecdote."

Any King Would Do. "I can trace my descent in a direct line from one of the early kings of England," she said.

"Which one?" he asked. "I don't recall the name. What kings did England have?"

FIRST AID.

Book Agent—This book tells you what to do for a person who has met with an accident.

Ambulance Chaser—I know all about that. The first thing to do is to get him to sign a contract for fees, and then try to collect some damages for him.

The Beautiful One. So beautiful she seemed to me, I wished we might be wed. Her neck was just like ivory! (Alas! So was her head.)

Quick Worker. "Old Mr. Gildwilt hadn't been dead two weeks before a smooth tombstone agent appeared on the scene." "And did he console the sorrowing widow while selling her a tombstone?" "I presume so. He married her."

When She Liked It. Patience—Do you like that woman's voice? Patience—Well, there's something about it I like. "What is it, do you think?" "When she stops using it."

The Better Way. "Some men take life hard, like Atlas with the world on his shoulders." "Well?" "Others remind me of the deonair performer who stands on a globe and trundles it in any direction he likes."

Some Try It. "What's the use of cussing so continuously?" "The darned auto won't go." "Well, you can't run it by lung power."

One Way. "So this is Sagebrush? I don't see how a man makes a living in such a desolate place." "Well, there's politics everywhere, my friend."

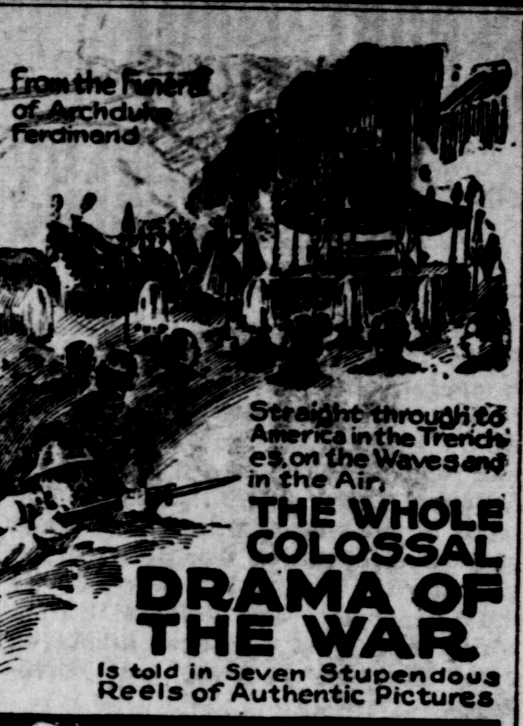

Overheard at News Stand. First Joke—Say, we've got a regular enderfoot with us in this week's issue. Never been in print before. Second Joke—Gracious me! The editor must have had a bad night!

Sly Scamp. "Why does Bill visit the doctor so often?" "He's trying to invent a set of symptoms requiring alcoholic treatment."

City Schools Open Monday.

I am advised by both Dr. Ross, City Health Officer, and Dr. Threlkeld, County Health Officer, that conditions now justify the opening of the city schools of Ada, Monday, November 18. A strict quarantine will be maintained in case of all children who come from homes where influenza still exists. Teachers will be instructed to make daily inspection of children in order that those sick or those physically unfit for school work may be given proper attention.

We have lost six weeks of this school term and it will take our best effort to even approximately make up the work. After the meetings of the board of education next Monday evening, announcement will be made as to the plan we shall follow in our endeavor to make up the time and the work.

KINDNESS OF BRITISH PEOPLE TO AMERICANS

BRIDGEND, Island of Islay, Scotland, Oct. 12.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) There were tears in the eyes of five American soldiers saved from the wrecked troopship Otranto when they said goodbye today to the good people of the little hamlet of Kilechoman. They had just attended a simple sabbath service especially held for them by their friend the padre, the Rev. Donald Grant, in the cottage of the village schoolmistress, Mrs. Isabelle MacIntyre, who had personally cared for seven of the twenty survivors who reached the island, and who with Mrs. Grant, the padre's wife, were regarded by the men as second mothers.

One of the five, Private Earl Garver of Cincinnati, owed his life to Mrs. Grant who worked for five hours over him before he revived, and who was fighting to save Private William Cooney of Augusta, Ga., critically ill with pneumonia. For years Mrs. Grant was the assistant matron of a big hospital in Glasgow and Dr. Hugh McIntyre of Bridgend, who treated all the Otranto survivors, regards her as one of the most skillful nurses in Scotland.

Big Sergeant C. A. McDonald of Galesburg, Ill., was visibly affected over the hand shaking, and he said to The Associated Press representative as they drove away to Bridgend, "That's almost as bad as it was to leave home."

But neither McDonald nor any of his companions realized the extent of the sacrifice those two women had made for the American boys, or that of other of the islanders including a warm-hearted shepherd named McPhee whose two sons, Ronald and John, rescued five men and took four of them to their home. In order to provide for their guests, the Grants, Mrs. McIntyre and the McPhees not only gave up their own needed clothing but cheerfully used every scrap of food they had to supply the hungry survivors with meals, and were themselves literally starving when American Red Cross officers by accident discovered the situation and drove twenty miles to a country store to buy provisions to replenish the larders of the good samaritans.

One of the Red Cross officers in recounting to the correspondent the relief work of the islanders, concluded by saying: "The people of the United States owe a debt of gratitude to the people of this little island that can never be paid." The Otranto was sunk in collision with the steamship Kashmir off the Scottish coast with a loss of 357 American soldiers.

United States army officers have been so greatly impressed by the kindness and hospitality of the islanders that they made a special request of The Associated Press to carry a list of the names of those whose service was particularly notable. From the Laird of Islay, Hugh Morrison, and his wife Lacy Mary down to the humblest peasant, the islanders have done everything in their power to comfort the survivors and help to recover the dead.

In addition to those already named, the army officers' honor list includes David MacTaggart, a farmer, and his wife and son. MacTaggart, who is the chief of the island's volunteer coast lifeguard, led the rescue parties when the survivors began to come ashore. Standing up to his armpits in the dangerous surf, he pulled out four drowning men, three of whom were soldiers and the other a member of the crew. All of these, with four other survivors, were taken by MacTaggart's young son to the family's home at Kilechoman, several miles distant, where they were taken care of until a British destroyer took them to Londonderry.

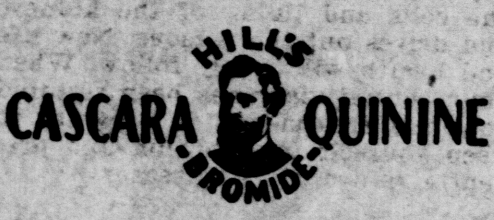

Another life saver was Andrew Stevenson, a seaman who holds a Carnegie medal for heroism.

Others on the army list are Mrs. Sarah Hyland, Alex MacMillan, Miss Jeanie Killen, Captain Rob Lawson, Miss Mary N. Clarke, Miss Flora MacAlpin, Miss Euphemie Currie, Donald Gillespie, Hector Masfaden, Miss Kate Clark, Ronald McLugash and Miss Mary MacIntyre.

Many of these already had earned American gratitude by their labors in connection with the Tuscania disaster.

Colonel Turnbull, head of the constabulary of Argyll, is warmly praising them.

REPORT FROM WAR WORKERS

Owing to a late start in most districts reports of the War Workers campaign are coming in slowly, but those that are in are showing up well. In Ada only the second ward has reported and more will likely be collected there as well as some districts of the county which have made only partial reports. One note worthy contribution in the city was $50 by the Carpenters and Joiners' Union, which has from the first displayed great liberality in every war movement.

Following is a report of the districts as they stood this afternoon:

TO AVOID AND RELIEVE INFLUENZA

(By Dr. Franklin Duane)

Many people have been frightened by what they have read or heard of influenza. The more you fear the disease, the surer you are to get it. Go right about your business and forget it. As the disease is spread principally by contact through sneezing, coughing or spitting, many health authorities have advised that everyone wear a gauze, which is daily washed and saturated with a one to five hundred solution of zinc sulphate in water, and then dried before wearing over the nose and mouth. You should avoid crowds, common drinking cups and public towels. Keep your strength up by taking lots of exercise in the open air and plenty of nourishing food.

If you have any of such symptoms as chilliness, nasal obstructions, flushed face, headache, feverishness, restlessness, weakness or irritability, give up work at once and go to bed. This will save your strength to help overcome the disease. Put your feet in hot water for fifteen minutes. Thoroughly loosen the bowels with some such mild and non-irritating physic as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Drink principally of hot lemonade and then cover up with plenty of clothes in bed so as to get a good sweat. When sweating is free and the fever reduced take a dose of two Anuric Tablets every four hours, followed by drinking at least a glass or two of hot water. Anuric Tablets help quickly to relieve the soreness from the muscles and bones from which most patients complain, and help the kidneys flush out the poisons.

To relieve nasal obstructions from a bad excessive discharge from the nose, probably nothing is better than such a mild, soothing, antiseptic wash as Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will give great relief. Employed as a gargle, in same strength as made up for use in the nose, and as hot as can be borne, it quickly arrests soreness and dryness in the throat.

Influenza weakens the patient's resistance to disease, so that there is danger of bronchitis and pneumonia developing. To combat this tendency and fortify the patient's strength insist that he keep in bed at least two days. Probably nothing will at this stage hasten the recovery and strengthen the patient more than an iron-ionic tablet called "Ironite" or that well known herbal tonic, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which has been used by thousands in the past two generations.

"We belong to the famous Airedale family." water is kept in excellent condition. And there have been some foolish and wicked people who have tried to put things in the water to make folks sick. "Whatever would they do that for?" asked Tag.

"It's beyond me to understand it," said Rowdy. "But still there have been such people, and until they can be found out, we have to be careful and guard the water for the many, many fine people. A few bad people shouldn't hurt lots of splendid people, you know."

"What would they do to the water?" asked Tag.

"They might put something in it which would make folks sick—not seriously sick, but annoyingly sick."

"What are we to do about it?" asked Tag.

"When we see strange-looking people who are throwing things in the water, when they know this water is for drinking purposes, we are to bark as loudly as we can, and if the people seem to be doing any harm, we must catch hold of their coat-tails and give them a good dose of fright."

"But when we bark, the guards, who are supposed to look after the drinking water, come out and see what the people are up to. But we save the time of the men who have many other things to do."

"They've said we made fine guards, or patrols, and a patrol dog is equal to a patrol guard or a policeman or anyone who looks after the safety of others."

"What an honor, to belong to the Dogs' Patrol Guard!" said Tag.

"I knew you'd feel that way about it," said Rowdy. "It's nice to be able to help a lot in the world. And we don't have to work all the time. We take turns. Just as though we worked in offices and were through at five or six o'clock at night. We have our working hours, our eating hours, our sleeping hours and our playing hours."

"Fine," said Tag, "and I'm glad indeed, they brought me here."

"You looked like a nice dog when I saw you," said Rowdy.

So both dogs became very friendly, and all of the forty dogs who guarded this body of drinking water, known as an aqueduct, were as intelligent as any people could be about their work.

They saved time for others who needed it for other purposes, and they kept the water safe for the people, until all the danger of foolish people who had thought it was smart to make others sick, was past. And every dog received a medal in payment for his splendid work!

DADE'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAY-MORRIS

FORTY FIVE DOGS.

"Have you joined us?" asked Rowdy.

"How-wow, sure I have," said Tag.

Now both of these were dogs and they were most important dogs, too.

"I suppose you would like to have everything explained to you," said Rowdy, and Tag wagged his tail.

"If you are the captain in chief, or dog in chief, I would like to have you tell me. Then, when the masters are teaching us, I won't seem to be too stupid."

"It's this way," said Rowdy. "We're dogs supposed to be bright and clever. We belong to the famous Airedale family, and we are living up to our family name."

"I've heard of some cats who did some sort of similar work and were quite fine, but they said they were nothing compared to us, and so you can see what a high reputation we have to live up to."

"I hope it isn't too high for me," said Tag.

"Oh, no," said Rowdy. "Do your best; try to learn all you can, be brave, fearless and loyal, and you'll be all right. It's as much as any dog can do. But every dog should do it."

"When are you going to begin explaining everything to me?" asked Tag.

"Whenever you wish," said Rowdy, who was eager to begin at once, for he loved his work and was very proud of it.

"I'd like to hear about it right away," said Tag.

"Our work," commenced Rowdy, "is to guard the water line all along these parts, for people in the big cities nearby and in the towns draw their water from here. We want to see that the Signers of the Declaration.

The American Declaration of Independence was signed by every member of the continental congress that made it. There were three signers from New Hampshire, five from Massachusetts, two from Rhode Island, four from Connecticut, four from New York, five from New Jersey, three from Delaware, nine from Pennsylvania, three from Maryland, seven from Virginia, four from North Carolina, four from South Carolina and three from Georgia.

Linked France and Scotland.

The small border, or treasure, which surrounds the arms of Scotland in the British coat of arms is the emblem of preservation or protection. A legend states that the border was given to Achaia, king of the Scots, by Charlemagne as a pledge that the French king should defend the Scottish lion. The significance of this lies in the design of the border, which is composed of fleur-de-lis.

New York's Systematic Growth.

A remarkable forecast of population of New York is brought to light in copies of the Scientific American for September 8, 1890. A statistician for the 'manual' of the common council shows the population of the city to increase until 1905 would have made the population of New York 6,257,493, a figure almost in accord with the census of that time.

Esquimo Kayak.

One of the oddest crafts ever seen near Provincetown, Mass., was the Esquimo kayak, in which Explorer Donald B. MacMillan paddled about. The kayak is a man's canoe and is built on a frame on which is stretched skin, water tight. It is handled with a double paddle, is decked over, and, with an expert in it, is one of the safest small craft known.

Success Came Late in Life.

Among the small group of brilliant women journalists of the last century Fanny Fern stands out as a unique figure. For, although she was married and widowed before she ever attempted to write, she became one of the most popular authors of the day, and her first book sold to the extent of 132,000—almost a record for those days.

The Snake's Rattle.

The rattle of the rattlesnake is developed from the single conical scale or epidermal spine, which in most snakes forms the internal tegument of the tail. The bone on which the roof of the rattle rests consists of the last caudal vertebra and is covered with a skin which is the beginning of the rattle in young rattlesnakes.

Yes, Guess.

When a young husband sits him down in his easy chair, and his child-wife slips quietly along, sits down in his lap and relates with tears trickling down her face that she hasn't had a new hat in three months—guess, gentle reader—which is the easier (or the uneasier), the chair or the husband.

Lone Village Lonesome.

Skiddaw is the not inappropriate name of a village in England that has only a single inhabitant. The lone villager of Skiddaw complains because he cannot vote—there being no overseer to prepare the voters' list and no church or public building on which to "publish" one, as the law requires.

Therefore, Be Cheerful!

Depression, gloom, dark brooding these are the worst stones in the descent to the inferno of incompetence, helplessness, delayed victory, or even ultimate defeat. This, we know, is true evermore in our individual life struggles. It is just as true of nations.—William Allen Knight.

Not Knocking Mazie.

Chorus Lady—"Mazie Middleton told me yesterday that she makes some easy money making a popping as a head-and-neck model for a sculptor." Show girl—"I shouldn't be at all surprised, some sculptors you know, make a specialty of popples!"—Pittsburgh Press.
